

Work wages justice opportunity equality employment social services income family

Local people voices support change creativity awareness leadership time

Community action service education advocacy movement power organizing

VOICES FOR ECONOMIC JUSTICE Presents:

THE FULL PLATES PROJECT

ARTSHOW AND PERFORMANCE

DECEMBER 2nd, 5-9pm
At the FLOOD GALLERY

located in the PHIL MECHANICS Building on 109 Roberts Street in the River Arts District

Minimum wage poverty line low income health insurance housing transportation help

Voices for Economic Justice is a group of low-wage workers and low-income persons who have organized to take a leadership role in the movement for a just and sustainable economy.

The Full Plates Project is a creative event organized by members of Voices for Economic Justice that aims to illustrate the complexities of living on a low-income and raise awareness about economic justice. The event will include an exhibition of 'Full Plates' painted by Voices members and a live performance written and performed by Voices members. The Full Plates Project will also include a silent auction of small, multi-media art works, the proceeds of which will benefit Just Economics.

Just Economics of Western North Carolina (JE) is an advocacy organization based in Asheville. We educate, advocate, and organize for a just and sustainable local economy in Western North Carolina.

For more information call Just Economics at 828 505 7466 or visit our website www.justeconomicswnc.org